The voyage

- The Mayflower left Plymouth, England, on 6 September 1620 and anchored in Cape Cod harbor (today's Provincetown Harbor) on 11 November 1620.
- 102 passengers sailed from England (the crew are not counted). One baby was born at sea and one in Cape Cod harbor, so 104 people in all; one passenger, William Butten, died just before landfall.
- The Mayflower Compact was signed at Cape Cod on 11 November 1620 (21 November New Style) by 41 of the men aboard. The original document is lost.
- About half of the passengers died in the first winter of 1620-21.

About this list

- The main record of who sailed is the list William Bradford wrote about 1650-51 at the end of his history Of Plymouth Plantation.
- Names are grouped by household in the order Bradford listed them, in modern spelling. Names in old records are often spelled differently.
- Bradford often wrote only "his wife" or "a son." Where later research supplies a given name, confirmed by two publishers, it is used; where no name is known, the list says so.

Did Your Ancestor Sail?

If one of these names is at the top of your family tree, the next step is to prove each generation between that passenger and you, one record at a time.

Where the early records are

- Plymouth Colony's own court orders, laws, deeds and other records were printed in 12 volumes as Records of the Colony of New Plymouth in New England (Boston, 1855-1861). Volume 8 includes births, marriages and deaths.
- A royal charter of 1691 joined Plymouth Colony to Massachusetts Bay as the Province of Massachusetts Bay; Plymouth Colony's own records end about 1691-92.
- Town clerks recorded births, marriages and deaths. From 1902 the early vital records of many Massachusetts towns were printed, usually titled Vital Records of [town] to the Year 1850 or to the End of the Year 1849; many also include gravestone records.
- Until 1752 England and its colonies used the Julian (Old Style) calendar, and the year began on 25 March. A date from 1 January to 24 March is therefore often written with two years, for example 23 February 1672/3.
